Description

Ideal College of Law organised a seminar for their students on 31st August, 2019 dedicated to honing advocacy skills. The seminar aimed to provide participants with valuable insights into effective advocacy and the essential skills required in the legal profession. The seminar began with a warm welcome of the esteemed guest speaker Dr. Rajesh Gupta sir by our Honourable Principal of the college Dr. Pradeep Sharma, setting the stage for an enlightening session on advocacy skills. It was followed by lighting of a lamp by the guest speaker Dr. Rajesh Gupta sir. The lecture was attended by 60 students. Dr. Rajesh Gupta sir delivered a compelling keynote presentation, delving into the fundamental aspects of effective advocacy. Her presentation covered various dimensions, including communication, research, courtroom etiquette, and persuasive techniques. The seminar included an interactive workshop where participants actively engaged in practical exercises to enhance their advocacy skills. This hands-on approach allowed attendees to apply the concepts discussed and receive real-time feedback. An insightful question and answer session followed the seminar, enabling participants to seek clarification and delve deeper into specific aspects of advocacy. The seminar concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Miss Vinita Sharma. Participants left with a heightened awareness of the essential advocacy skills and a deeper understanding of their application in legal practice.

DESCRIPTION

Ideal college of Law College organised a conference on the topic of "Refugee Laws in India" on 26th February, 2022. The conference was attended by students showing great enthusiasm.. The speaker for the event was Prof. Shweta Shah. The welcoming speech was given by Mr. Avinash Veer, Student President of Student Bar Forum. The lighting of the lamp was done by the honourable speaker, Dr. Sajan G. Patil (the Principal of the college), and the presidents of the Student Bar Forum Dr.Ramesh .Chandra .Rai Mr. Avinash Veer and Ms. Avadhi Jain. Following the lighting of the lamp, the honourable guest was felicitated. A total of 70 students attended the seminar. The conference centred around the rights and legal obligations towards refugees in India. It covered topics such as the definition of a refugee, the process of seeking asylum, and the rights and entitlements afforded to refugees under Indian law. The objective was to equip the students with knowledge that would help them better comprehend the challenges faced by refugees and the legal mechanisms in place to address their needs. From the conference the students learned that refugees are people who flee their country of origin due to a well-founded fear of persecution for reasons of race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group or political opinion. They also learned that India does not have a specific national law or policy for refugees, but it has always accepted refugees from neighbouring countries on humanitarian grounds. However, India follows some of the principles of the Convention, such as non-refoulement, which means not sending refugees back to a place where their life or freedom would be threatened. India also cooperates with the UNHCR, the UN agency that assists refugees, and grants refugee status to some asylum seekers who are not recognized by the Indian government. India treats refugees as foreigners under its existing laws, such as the Foreigners Act, 1946, the Passport Act, 1967, and the Citizenship Act, 1955. These laws do not distinguish between refugees and other foreigners, and do not grant any special rights or benefits to refugees. Refugees in India face many challenges, such as lack of legal recognition, documentation, education, health care, employment, and social integration. They also face the risk of detention, deportation, and discrimination. India has hosted different groups of refugees over the years. The treatment and status of these refugees vary depending on their origin, religion, and political affiliation. India needs a comprehensive and consistent refugee law that can address the needs and rights of refugees in a fair and humane manner. Such a law should be based on the principles of international law and human rights, and should provide for the identification, registration, protection, and durable solutions for refugees.

LEGAL ETHICS

In legal research and writing maintaining ethical standards is paramount.

Upholding integrity, accuracy, and fairness in citing sources, analyzing cases, and presenting arguments is essential.

Avoiding plagiarism, respecting confidentiality, and disclosing conflicts of interest are fundamental principles that guide ethical conduct.

Legal professionals must navigate the complexities of the law with honesty, diligence, and respect for the profession and its stakeholders. By adhering to ethical standards, legal researchers and writers uphold the integrity of the legal system and earn the trust and confidence of clients, colleagues, and the public.

Topics covered in seminar are

Ethics in legal research is a crucial topic that ensures the integrity, reliability, and responsible conduct of legal studies. Let's explore some key aspects related to ethics in legal research:

1. Comparative Method:

- Legal research often involves comparing laws, judgments, and statutory instruments across different jurisdictions. Researchers must follow rigorous and effective methods when investigating national and foreign law<sup>1</sup>.
- The comparative method allows legal scholars to analyze legal systems, identify similarities and differences, and draw meaningful conclusions. However, researchers must be transparent about their methodology and avoid biases.

2. Avoiding Conflicts of Interest:

- Legal researchers should maintain independence and avoid conflicts of interest. Financial interests or personal connections should not compromise the integrity of the research.
- Striving for objectivity is essential. Researchers must disclose any potential conflicts and ensure that their work remains unbiased and credible.

3. Protection of Sensitive Data:

- Legal research may involve collecting sensitive information, such as personal data or case details. Researchers must handle this data ethically and protect the rights and privacy of individuals involved.

Dr.Ramesh .Chandra .Rai

I/c Principal

- Compliance with ethical canons and principles defined by the scientific community or imposed by statutes is crucial. Researchers should prioritize human rights while conducting their studies.

Phone:02526-297267.

4. Ethical Awareness:

- Legal writers should be aware of ethical considerations in their work. This includes:
  - Self-awareness: Reflecting on one's biases, values, and motivations.
  - Community of practice: Understanding the legal profession's norms and expectations.
  - Professional responsibility: Upholding ethical standards in legal writing<sup>2</sup>.

5. General Research Ethics:

- Beyond legal research, all scientific endeavors adhere to ethical principles. Researchers must:
  - Protect participants' rights, safety, and well-being.
  - Obtain informed consent.
  - Avoid plagiarism and ensure proper citations.
  - Maintain data integrity and transparency
